

Madeira at Texprocess

Texprocess will be held from 24 until 27 May in Frankfurt. Madeira will illustrate by means of many examples some of the most creative embroidered designs.

Depending on what they are doing, customers have the choice between different make-ups in the Madeira product range. If the range of colors being used in the embroidery jobs is large, it will be better to use the spool version. And in this regard Madeira is just about to introduce its state-of-the-art MSC – Mini Snap Cone.

The MSC is now offering the same advantages of the 5000m on the 1000m make-up (or 1.500m make up depending on the thread version). Compared to other spool make-ups, the MSC has the shape of a small cone, which prevents the thread from falling off. Machines with more and more needles per embroidery head do not always offer enough space to place the quantity of spools intended. According to Madeira, this is where the extremely small diameter of the MSC base proves to be a huge advantage.

Fire Fighter

There is a growing demand for the Fire Fighter thread. This is the reason why Madeira has started offering an additional make-up on 2.500m cones in 9 colors selected from the Fire Fighter color range, beside the regular make-up on 1.500m spools .

Polyneon 60

Madeira also presents the rayon thread Classic No.60 and the polyester thread Polyneon No.60. Because they are the most used colors for small details and letterings on logos, Madeira offers now black and white in Polyneon No.60 on a larger make-up of 5.000m. At the upcoming Texprocess show, the many different thread optics, either woolen with the Burmilana thread, matt with the Frosted Matt thread or metalized with the huge range of the FS and Supertwist threads, will be for sure an attraction pole for all customers who seek creativity and highest quality.

Designed by Bonnie Nielsen / Madeira

The trade show Texprocess will also be the perfect place to learn about Madeira´s range of backings and toppings.
